login - Wordpress wp-admin redirects me to a different ...

Go to your database, and find the table called wp-option, then change the wordpress address and site address to mysite.net. You can also add the following lines of code to the wp-config.php file

Topic: wp-admin redirects to wp-login wordpresswp-admin ...

Can you check your htaccess file through FTP? Else use phpMyAdmin or just log directly into the database and look at your wp_options table. Check the following two fields: siteurl and home.

wp-admin redirecting to wp-login.php?redirect\_to=

I went to my DNS and added a CNAME record for that domain and then it worked, but still with the redirect to wp-login.php. I've never had to add the CNAME's before in the past to get someone's site working, and the site works fine, it's just getting to wp-admin.

i am able to login when i rename the plugins folder, but as soon as i use the original plugins folder name again the problem starts again. (Despite all plugins are disabled) I am not able to find if its a plugin folder or any one plugin which is the problem.

Help Me! My wp-admin has been redirected! Unable to login ...

Assuming xyz.com represents your actual domain, that looks okay to me. wp-login.php is where you are always redirected to to log in. The part at the end is where it will send you (back to /wp-admin/) after you've logged in.
